

ABSTRACT

A method is provided for producing a preview image for printing an input digital image having a first aspect ratio. The method includes providing a print format having a second aspect ratio different from the first aspect ratio, calculating a printable image portion of the input digital image for the print format, and displaying the printable image portion of the digital image for preview prior to printing an image print at the print format.